Q. Am I too young for college recruiters and pro scouts.

A. YES.... But These events are also excellent opportunities for younger players to assess their abilities against national level competition, gain confidence and to become accustomed to the pressures of performing at a higher level. Parent comments: “As you go through the process of parenting a player through high level ball, you learn that being a good player in Canada simply isn’t going to get you noticed by US College Coaches. There are so many players to see in their own backyard. You really need someone in your corner, who knows how college coaches think, what they’re looking for and how to get noticed. Morgan Reiter not only called coaches on our behalf, he gave me some of the most solid advice along the way. As a parent of a ball player, even a talented and hard working one, it’s always tough to know what to do, and where to spend your money. Morgan picks great tournaments to travel to, has appropriate roster size, and provided a great experience for my son.

His key advice afterward helped us to land a full ride scholarship in Florida to the #12 ranked Junior College in the US. Thanks again Morgan! - Ken Diewert, Nanaimo, BC (full scholarship to Polk State JC. – recently signed full scholarship to U of Missouri)

“Thanks again for the all you did for the boys with this opportunity. This really was a great trip for Ben, he definitely learned a lot. I know he’s coming back with a much better understanding of what he needs to work on and the commitment that will require. We had a great time and really enjoyed the whole experience. Thanks again!” – WardKomonosky (Ben received full scholarship to Blinn in Texas)
